A brief program will take place at the Capitol, then we walk seven blocks to our indoor venue at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Student Union, 14th and R streets, second floor, Ballroom & Centennial Room for our keynote speaker.

About Rebekah Buell

Despite facing many challenges, Rebekah chose life when she became pregnant with her first son at 17. Her future looked bright two years later while attending a California university, until her troubled relationship came to an end just before she learned she was pregnant again. Feeling panicked and afraid of losing her parents' support and college dreams while supporting two children alone, she went to Planned Parenthood at eight weeks pregnant to begin a chemical abortion. However, after taking the first RU-486 abortion pill, Rebekah knew she had made the biggest mistake of her life. Miraculously, with the help of a new protocol called abortion pill reversal, a pro-life doctor helped save her baby through progesterone injections to counteract the abortion pill. Although Planned Parenthood told her this would be impossible and would result in "severe deformations," Rebekah gave birth to a healthy baby in October 2013.

Parking is available east, south and west of the Capitol, and in nearby metered stalls and parking garages. Dress warmly and bring the family to this peaceful, legal witness for LIFE! All events conclude at 1 p.m.

Baked goods accepted at the south side of the Student Union after 8 a.m. Jan. 14 and prior days by arrangement. Questions? Call NRL at 402-318-8291 or email nebraskartl@gmail.com.

WE DID IT!

By Carol Tobias, president, National Right to Life

We did it! After more than a year of ups and downs, doubts and excitement, we won, which means the babies won.

Right-to-lifers worked extremely hard to elect a pro-life president and maintain pro-life control in both the U.S. House and Senate.

While our opponents were stunned by disbelief, many of them came back swinging. Slate magazine carried an article the morning after the election, "White Women Sold Out the Sisterhood and the World by Voting for Trump." Because we're women, we were supposed to support the female candidate who supports killing babies — including girl babies — for any reason, even late in pregnancy.

Planned Parenthood, of course, reassured the country that they remain open for business. NARAL Pro-Choice America wrote, "Donald Trump's vision for America and the policies he has proposed are a clear and present danger to women, our bodies and our freedoms. Our charge every day is to work to ensure President-Elect Trump cannot strip away our freedoms, our rights and our ability to chart our own destiny."

The Washington Post, which has not tried to hide its disdain for Donald Trump through the past several months, wrote, "We hope the election winner will be a better president than we fear."

A recent WaPo op-ed could be used as an example of exaggerated hyperbole, declaring that the election was a vote against women — the writer decided to broaden that premise, saying the election was, in effect, a vote against everyone but white men and Christian women.

Unlike these dismal, pessimistic opinions, pro-lifers look forward to the new administration with optimism and renewed enthusiasm.

Last year, the U.S. House and Senate passed a budget reconciliation bill that would have defunded Planned Parenthood, only to have it vetoed by President Obama. Donald Trump stated throughout the campaign that as long as Planned Parenthood performs abortions, they should not receive tax dollars. You can be sure there will be renewed efforts to remove tax funding from the nation's largest abortion provider.

As you read in NRL News Today, our state affiliates were very successful Nov. 8th. Thanks to all we accomplished, we will renew efforts to pass pro-life legislation in Congress as well as in the many state legislatures.

And in Donald Trump we have a president-elect who has stated he will appoint pro-life judges to the Supreme Court. It is and should be of utmost importance that we change the courts and restore legal protection to unborn children.

I ask that, if you are a praying person, you pray for all our newly-(re)elected leaders for wisdom, strength and determination to accomplish the task set before them.

The world looks brighter and more joyous than it has for a long time. Thank you for everything you did to elect pro-life candidates to so many positions. Unborn children were the true winners in these elections.

LATE-TERM ABORTIONIST LEROY CARHART QUILTS, DID ABORTIONS THROUGH ALL NINE MONTHS

By Cheryl Sullenger
Reprinted from LifeNews.com

Abortionist LeRoy Carhart will no longer be conducting abortions at Germantown Reproductive Health Services (GRHS), an abortion facility in Germantown, Maryland, that has until now provided abortions throughout all nine months of pregnancy.

According to local sources, Carhart's last abortions in Maryland took place during the week of Oct. 30th. He returned to GRHS Nov. 8th, but stayed only a few hours, sending several very late-term patients home without abortions. He left later in the afternoon and never returned.

"The fact that Carhart will no longer be aborting babies in Maryland is something to be grateful for this Thanksgiving. We congratulate our co-laborers at the Maryland Coalition for Life for their hard work that has made this day a reality," said Operation Rescue President Troy Newman. "Carhart's brand of very late-term abortions are morally reprehensible and very dangerous, having taken the lives of countless viable babies and two of this patients. We have worked for years to end this atrocity, and today, Maryland is free from the dangers posed by Carhart."

GRHS, once among the few abortion facilities that would openly do the expensive third-trimester abortions, now offers them up to 19 weeks.

Carhart located his extremely late-term abortion business to Germantown in December 2010. This move was prompted by the 2009 closure of Women's Health Care Services in Wichita, Kansas, where he also worked conducting third-trimester abortions. His plan to move his late-term business to Nebraska was thwarted by the passage of the Pain Capable Unborn Child Protection Act — the first of its kind — by the Nebraska Unicameral in April 2010, which banned abortions at 20 weeks or later into pregnancy.

While in Maryland, Carhart's risky abortions were responsible for the emergency transport of at least eight women to hospital emergency rooms. In addition, one of his third-trimester patients, Jennifer Morbelli, died in 2013 from complications to her procedure.

Earlier this year, a Federal lawsuit was filed against Carhart for a seriously botched late-term abortion that came close to costing the life of another one of his patients. He also faced the scrutiny of the House Select Panel on Infant Lives, which issued subpoenas to him and GRHS for documents related to the suspected trafficking of aborted baby remains and the deaths of babies who may have been born alive during abortions at the Germantown facility.

Carhart continues to operate an abortion facility in his hometown of Bellevue, Nebraska, where he still does abortions up to 20 weeks.

"At age 75 and not in the best of health, we believe it is a great time for Carhart to retire," Newman said. "We pray that before next Thanksgiving, he will make the decision to quit the killing business for good."
