46 YEARS AT THE STATE FAIR

Nebraska Right to Life hosted a booth at the State Fair for the 46th year, educating attendees in Grand Island. This year, NRL won Reserve Champion, Indoor Exhibit! We strive to make the double-wide, corner booth educational and inviting. Thank you to all of our volunteers for their efforts.

LATE TERM ABORTIONIST LEROY CARHART ADMITS: IT'S A 'BABY' AND 'I HAVE NO PROBLEM' KILLING IT

From Lifenews.com, 8/1/19. Links included in the story appear in bold.

LeRoy Carhart is one of just a few openly practicing late-term abortionists in the United States.

In a recent interview with the BBC program "Panorama," he candidly admitted that he kills babies, and he has no problem doing so — even after they are viable.

Carhart aborts unborn babies all the way up to birth at his late-term abortion facility in Bethesda, Maryland. He also aborts unborn babies in Nebraska.

The aging abortionist, who is in his late 70s, told journalist Hilary Andersson that he "loves his job" and is proud to perform late-term abortions, The Christian Institute reports.

Unlike many abortion activists, Carhart uses the word "baby," too.

Andersson noted: "It's interesting that you use the word 'baby,' because a lot of abortionists won't use that. They'll use the word 'fetus' because they don't want to acknowledge that there's a life."

"I think that it is a baby," Carhart replied, "and ... I use it with the patients."

"And you don't have a problem killing a baby?" she asked.

"Absolutely not. I have no problem if it's in the mother's uterus," he answered.

Carhart claimed that he aborts viable, late-term unborn babies only for serious health reasons. But then he admitted to Andersson that he defines "health" very loosely.

According to the report:

But while he denies carrying out unnecessary abortions, Dr. Carhart says "financial health" and "social health" would constitute medical health, adding, "there's a large, large list."

He admitted that he would be happy to perform any abortion if the mother tells him "it would destroy her life if she has to carry the baby."

He also refused to commit himself to how late he would carry out an abortion.

When pressed, he said he was not comfortable saying, but added: "To the fetus, it makes no difference whether it's born or not born."

He told a stunned Andersson: "The baby has no input in this as far as I'm concerned."

At another point in the interview, Carhart described how he crushes the babies' skulls to remove them, the report states. When the journalist seemed shocked at his vivid description, he replied, "Yeah, but you've got to remember that this baby's been dead for 48 hours. It's not like we're crushing a living skull."

Babies are not the only ones who are dying after a visit to one of Carhart's abortion facilities. Operation Rescue, a pro-life watchdog group, recorded evidence of at least 18 serious medical emergencies at his abortion facilities since 2012, including one woman who died along with her baby after a late-term abortion in 2013.

Carhart once told a group of medical students that he believes he is doing "God's work" by killing babies before they are born.

INDIANA ABORTIONIST DIES, POLICE FIND REMAINS OF OVER 2,200 ABORTED BABIES IN HIS HOME

From Lifenews.com, 9/14/19. Links included in the story appear in bold.

A controversial Indiana abortionist who repeatedly broke state laws and was caught failing to report cases of statutory rape of young girls to authorities has died. But that's not the most shocking revelation about Ulrich George Klopfer.

After his death, police were alerted to the discovery of over 2,200 preserved aborted babies found in his home. A local news report has more (16NewsNow, NADU): Police say 2,246 medically preserved fetal remains were found on the property of Klopfer, a late abortion doctor who used to operate a South Bend clinic.

He died on Sept. 3.

On Sept. 12, the Will County (Illinois) Coroner's Office received a call from an attorney representing his family. They reported finding fetal remains among Klopfer's personal property and requested proper removal.

Will County sheriff's detectives, crime scene investigators and representatives from the coroner's office were directed to an area of the property where 2,246 medically preserved fetal remains were located.

The coroner's office took possession of the remains.

This isn't the first time Klopfer was found to have stored the remains of aborted babies. Police executed a search warrant on Ulrich G. Klopfer's Women's Pavilion abortion clinic in South Bend, seizing documents and other property March 19, 2014.

Police from the St. Joseph County Special Victims Unit participated in the raid. It is unknown exactly what kind of documents or other evidence the search warrant allowed police to take. According to news reports, the police apparently made copies of the seized documents and returned the originals to Klopfer.

The raid came after inspections of his abortion center in 2010 and 2012 found him storing the remains of an aborted baby in the fridge next to medications.

When he was doing abortions, the Indiana Medical Licensing Board called on the Indiana Attorney General's office to investigate allegations that Klopfer, operator of three Indiana abortion clinics, was running afoul of state laws. He failed to report a statutory rape as required by Indiana law. He eventually lost his license as a result.

Klopfer, an Illinois resident, operated abortion facilities for decades in Gary, Fort Wayne and South Bend. He lost his Fort Wayne backup physician with admitting privileges, required by an Allen County ordinance and state code, in December 2013, rendering him unable to do abortions in Fort Wayne in 2014 and 2015.
